

CHEERLEADER MEETS THE GOTH

A Comedy Monologue

by
Deborah Karczewski

Brooklyn Publishers, LLC

Toll-Free 888-473-8521

Fax 319-368-8011

Web www.brookpub.com

Copyright © 2003 by Deborah Karczewski
All rights reserved

CAUTION: Professionals & amateurs are hereby warned that Cheerleader Meets the Goth is subject to a royalty. This play is fully protected under the copyright laws of the United States of America, Canada, the British Commonwealth and all other countries of the Copyright Union.

RIGHTS RESERVED: All rights to this play are strictly reserved, including professional and amateur stage performance rights. Also reserved are: motion pictures, recitation, lecturing, public reading, radio broadcasting, television, video and the rights of translation into non-English languages.

PERFORMANCE RIGHTS & ROYALTY PAYMENTS: All amateur and stock performance rights to this play are controlled exclusively by Brooklyn Publishers, LLC. No amateur or stock production groups or individuals may perform this play without securing license and royalty arrangements in advance from Brooklyn Publishers, LLC. Questions concerning other rights should be addressed to Brooklyn Publishers, LLC. If necessary, we will contact the author or the author's agent. PLEASE NOTE that royalty fees for performing this play can be located online at Brooklyn Publishers, LLC website (<http://www.brookpub.com>). Royalty fees are subject to change without notice. Professional and stock fees will be set upon application in accordance with your producing circumstances. Any licensing requests and inquiries relating to amateur and stock (professional) performance rights should be addressed to Brooklyn Publishers, LLC. You will find our contact information on the following page.

Royalty of the required amount must be paid, whether the play is presented for charity or profit and whether or not admission is charged. Only forensics competitions are exempt from this fee.

AUTHOR CREDIT: All groups or individuals receiving permission to produce this play must give the author(s) credit in any and all advertisement and publicity relating to the production of this play. The author's billing must appear directly below the title on a separate line where no other written matter appears. The name of the author(s) must be at least 50% as large as the title of the play. No person or entity may receive larger or more prominent credit than that which is given to the author(s).

PUBLISHER CREDIT: Whenever this play is produced, all programs, advertisements, flyers or other printed material must include the following notice:

Produced by special arrangement with Brooklyn Publishers, LLC (<http://www.brookpub.com>)

TRADE MARKS, PUBLIC FIGURES, & MUSICAL WORKS: This play may include references to brand names or public figures. All references are intended only as parody or other legal means of expression. This play may contain suggestions for the performance of a musical work (either in part or in whole). Brooklyn Publishers, LLC have not obtained performing rights of these works. The direction of such works is only a playwright's suggestion, and the play producer should obtain such permissions on their own. The website for the U.S. copyright office is <http://www.copyright.gov>.

COPYING: from the book in any form (in whole or excerpt), whether photocopying, scanning recording, videotaping, storing in a retrieval system, or by any other means is strictly forbidden without consent of Brooklyn Publishers, LLC.

TO PERFORM THIS PLAY

1. Royalty fees must be paid to Brooklyn Publishers, LLC before permission is granted to use and perform the playwright's work.
2. Royalty of the required amount must be paid each time the play is performed, whether the play is presented for charity or profit and whether or not admission is charged.
3. When performing one-acts or full-length plays, enough playbooks must be purchased for cast and crew.
4. Copying or duplication of any part of this script is strictly forbidden.
5. Any changes to the script are not allowed without direct authorization by Brooklyn Publishers, LLC.
6. Credit to the author and publisher is required on all promotional items associated with this play's performance(s).
7. Do not break copyright laws with any of our plays. This is a very serious matter and the consequences can be quite expensive. We must protect our playwrights, who earn their living through the legal payment of script and performance royalties.
8. If you have questions concerning performance rules, contact us by the various ways listed below:

Toll-free: 888-473-8521

Fax: 319-368-8011

Email: customerservice@brookpub.com

Copying, rather than purchasing cast copies, and/or failure to pay royalties is a federal offense. Cheating us and our wonderful playwrights in this manner will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Please support theatre and follow federal copyright laws.

CHEERLEADER MEETS THE GOTH

by
Deborah Karczewski

(Krista is the epitome of those beautiful girls who are self-absorbed, hyper, and not-so-bright.)

OH-MY-GOD! I am – like – so totally freaked! Half of me is relieved to be out of that place. Half of me is, well, touched because I've had, like, a (hands pantomime quotation marks in the air) "moment" with a fellow human being. And half of me wants to take a shower like you wouldn't believe!

It wasn't even my idea, anyway. My father sat me down yesterday in his big, leather office. I thought - Cool! I'm finally going to get that new digital camera I've been begging for!

Daddy cleared his throat and said, "Krista, it's time for us to start thinking about embellishing your resume for college."

"Are you kidding me? What for?" I asked. "I am captain of the Redford High School Cheerleaders!"

"I know that, Pumpkin, and your mother and I are very proud of you," he said, "but – "

I interrupted, "I've been cheering since kindergarten, Daddy! First for the Twin-Boro Pollywogs in elementary school... then for the Twin-Boro Fighting Frogs in middle school... and now for the Twin-Boro Amphibians in high school! If it weren't for the motivation of us cheerleaders, the Amphibians would never have made it to the Football All-States!"

"I'm not denying that your cheerleading is quite impressive, Honey," he said. "It's just that colleges like to see that you have varied interests...that there's more to Krista than just cheering."

"JUST?" I gasped. Imagine – insulted to the core by my own father!

"You need to try other activities," Daddy said. "Spread your wings. Experience new clubs. Diversify!"

"Di – what?"

"Diversify. Show those colleges that you are good at more than one thing. Let them see that Krista is more than just a cheerleader."

"JUST? JUST?" Stabbed twice in the heart in one day! So...there you have it. My whole world was turned upside down... My entire reason for being ripped apart. What else did he expect me to do? Cheering was my life! First I thought – how about Service Club? No, you have to dish out soup and stuff to poor people. I mean – eeeewwww, can you imagine the germ potential? Then I considered how about tennis? No way. Think about the sweat factor. Debate Club? Uh-uh, what if somebody disagreed with me? I'd be crushed! Then, it hit me: Drama Club. The school musical! Perfect! I could so handle the choreography – I mean, the very essence of cheering is dancing, right? And the singing? Well – Duh! What do I do every day in the shower? Sing! And the acting? Well, when we read Macbeth in English class, Mr. Kurtz said that he had never seen such a unique interpretation of the witches before. (The actress should yell and move to the words as though they were a cheerleading routine.) "Bubble! Bubble! Toil and Trouble!"

Well, can you believe that auditions just happened to be tonight? This year's spring musical is supposed to be a play called The Sound of Music or something like that. So, I dressed up in my tiniest little skirt, my glitteriest top, and my platformiest shoes... took a deep breath...and psyched myself up.

The director asked me if I'd like to try out for Mother Somebody or Sister Whatever. I said, "Sure." I mean, I've got a mother. I've got a sister. No problem, right? First they had me read some scene about my character sending some chick, Maria, off to the mountains somewhere. I figured they were having me read for the villain, so I read the lines using my best impression of the Wicked Witch of the West. You know – the green one in The Wizard of Oz. I was pretty sure that they loved it because everyone started applauding. Next, was the singing part of the audition. When I sang about climbing that mountain, I really rocked! (pantomimes the hand-over-hand motion of climbing up a ladder) And when I sang about searching high and low, I gave it my all. (puts her hand to her brow, flat above her eyes, “Indian-scout” fashion, and rises on tiptoe for “high” and crouches for “low”) Then the director said, “That was great, Krista. Now, let’s do it again ...for real.”

For real? I looked out into the audience section of the auditorium where the people who were waiting to try out were sitting. Everyone was cracking up. Some of them were holding their stomachs, they were laughing so hard. And it hit me. They weren’t laughing because I had done a good job. They were laughing AT me! ME! The captain of the Redford High School Cheerleaders!

Somehow I made it off the stage and ran up to the second floor girls’ room. I slammed shut the stall door and cried like I’ve never cried before. I was so humiliated! So embarrassed! So mad at Daddy! So confused! What had I done that was so awful? I hated everybody! Suddenly, I heard the bathroom door swing open. I pulled my legs high up onto the toilet seat so that if anyone looked under the stall door, nobody would know I was there. I didn’t want to talk to anybody. They could all flush themselves for all I cared.

SLAM! Somebody kicked the bathroom door shut. BOOM! Somebody kicked the stall door open right next to me. BAM! Somebody kicked it shut again. Ok – so now I was not as much upset as I was totally freaked. I hugged my knees to my chest and tried not to breathe. Then I heard the most (searching for the right word) pathetic noise I had ever heard. It started like a low whine in the back of the throat and then it rose to a full, high-pitched, painful howl! I tried so hard to keep completely... and totally... silent. I sat for what felt like an hour. My legs began to ache, but I was too scared to move a muscle.

Finally, the bathroom door opened, again. “Anybody in here?” It was Miss Carlson the custodian. “Locking up, now!” she yelled. What should I do? If I moved now, whoever was next to me would know that I had been there all that time! He, she, or it would know that I had witnessed her tantrum or whatever the heck it was. And if whoever it was WAS THAT angry already, imagine what he, she, or it would do to ME! I kept perfectly still. (pause) So did the thing next to me. Miss Carlson turned off the lights and closed the bathroom door. My heart was beating so loudly that I was certain that whoever was in the stall next to me could hear it. My heart sounded like the marching band’s drums. It was dark. Pitch black. My legs felt totally numb. I decided to lower them slowly to the ground. SPLASH! I guess between the dark and the lack of blood supply, my left foot thumped right into the toilet. I yelled, “EEEWWWW!”

“What’s that? Who’s there?” barked the voice from the next stall.

What happened next is a short blur. I suppose we both fumbled for the stall doors, bumped into sinks, and grabbed for the light switch by the exit door at the exact same moment. Feeling each other’s hand on the switch, we both screamed, “AHHHH!” The lights popped on.

End of free preview